Lael Schooler is Professor of Psychology at Syracuse University in upstate New York. Most recently, he was a Senior Research Scientist at the Center for Adaptive Behavior and Cognition at the Max Planck Institute for Human Development in Berlin. Much of Lael’s work investigates computational models of simple heuristics—cognitive processes that use limited information to make effective decisions in an uncertain world.