Antonio Medrano is a postdoctoral researcher at the Center for Spatial Studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara (UCSB). He is working with the UCSB Library to coordinate an integration of spatial data protocols into the campus ArcGIS Online offering, as well as to establish a collaboratory for implementing good spatial analysis practices for on-campus research outside of the Department of Geography. Medrano completed his Ph.D. in Geography at UCSB, where he partnered with Argonne National Laboratory to research spatial optimization methods for corridor location for new transmission lines.
